These courses have been recommended for transfer credit eligibility by the American Council on Education's College Credit Recommendation Service (ACE CREDIT®) and over 2,000 schools consider ACE CREDIT recommendations for credit transfers. Prospective students should check the ACE National Guide for the most current information on the review dates for these courses before deciding to enroll. It's important to note that no form of accreditation guarantees that any learning institution will accept credits from any school as transfer credits. The decision to transfer credits is up to the individual institutions and students who plan to continue with another school after completing coursework at Penn Foster College should check with that school regarding its transfer credit policies.
